By Tiffany Prock I love books that teach me how to clean by using the ingredients that you have in your home. I grew interested in organic after seeing what the chemicals do not only to our environment but to our health in general. This book is highly informative, listing several simple homemade solutions that you can use to clean everything from removing tile mold to making your own shoe polish. If you're concerned about the environment and all the chemicals we use in our life then this is a great book to buy.
