You know how to make what they are showing, and the ideas for altering your own work just flow naturally. Presented very very well, and the contents are amazing too.By EPI bought this book as inspiration for a friend who is a sculptor (she works in the clay medium). The book is a beautiful book, so makes a lovely gift, and the platters in it are so amazing that it is also a wonderful inspiration for all artists. I love this series of books!!0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Great ideas...:)By GPGot this book when I first began taking pottery lessons. I love it and still refer to it whenever I'm looking for inspiration! I would recommend this book to beginners and experienced ceramists as well. GP

Plates and chargers can serve as more than just places to put your food: they can be glorious art to show off on a table, sideboard, or hutch. These 500 spectacular pieces chosen by esteemed juror Linda Arbuckle range from the utilitarian yet beautifully glazed plate to dramatically decorated work, and they're crafted from a remarkable variety of materials including pristine porcelain and bold earthenware. Nick Joerlings stoneware is the perfect canvas for a design: vigorous brush strokes set in wax resist race across its attractive surface. Kelly McKibbens hand-built Going for a Stroll showcases delicately inlaid and silk-screened images. The stunning gallery provides a unique and wide-ranging snapshot of contemporary ceramic arts.
