Ronald Larsen : A Potter's Companion: Imagination, Originality, and Craft (Park Street Press S) before purchasing it in order to gauge whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised A Potter's Companion: Imagination, Originality, and Craft (Park Street Press S):

In a celebration of the functional and the handmade, potter Ronald Larsen has gathered an engaging collection of essays, stories, poems, and observations by a wide range of potters, writers, philosophers, and other artisans, exploring the history, aesthetics, and philosophy behind making pots--or anything else--by hand. Includes, among others, the writings of: Marguerite Wildenhain--A Potter's Philosophy Octavio Paz--Use and Contemplation Lafcadio Hearn--The

Tale of the Porcelain-God John Updike--From the Journal of a Leper Jamake Highwater--Illusions of Originality
Wallace Stevens--Anecdote of the Jar Bernard Leach--The Potter's Challenge
