One of the key players on Olympian Ingrid Klimke's team is the veterinarian Dr. Ina G#246smeier, who specializes in such methodologies as acupuncture and traditional Chinese medicine (TCM). In Acupressure for Horses, G#246smeier shows horse owners how to use acupressure, the non-needling form of stimulating acupuncture points, to help relieve their animals' minor aches and pains and stimulate their well-being. Beginning with explanations of the concepts of TCM and a guide to determining your horse's dominant element according to TCM principles, G#246smeier provides a step-by-step guide to this noninvasive way of helping horses feel and perform better. Ample clear color photos show the meridians, acupressure points, and techniques. USDF Connection, July/August 2017
