Chazen Museum of Art, Catherine Coleman Brawer : Chinese Export Porcelain from the Liebman Collection before purchasing it in order to gauge whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Chinese Export Porcelain from the Liebman Collection:

4 of 7 people found the following review helpful. A nice book on Chinese Export, not very comprehensive By A Customer This is a very moderate book which does not have the ability to captivate the attention of most readers. It is of a not very impressive collection. A better book would be one on the Mottahedeh Collection, which is a much larger and better documented collection of Chinese Export.

In the first half of the 20th century Milwaukee collector Ethel Liebman acquired hundreds of exquisite Chinese export porcelains, which were presented to the Elvehjem (now Chazen) in the 1970s. Over a hundred of these wares are described and documented, including armorial and pseudo-armorial pieces, some porcelains decorated with indigenous Eastern designs, and others with Western motifs.
